

Write an application to show the UI like above. You have one h1 tag having the text “I am red” and button named Toggle. Once you click the button the color and text of h1 tag should be toggled. E.g. “I am red” text in red color will be modified with “I am green” text with green color. If button is pressed again then it should go back to previous state i.e. previous text with red color.
